Whether you are for or against the plan, you should make it a point to attend the meeting at the grammar school on Monday evening and hear what the informed speaker has to say. The issue is one of the most important that has ever been faced by the state andit should not be taken lightly.

Fire prevention is the subject of an extensive program being carried on this week by members of the local fire department in observance of Fire Prevention Week. They are asking the cooperation of everyone in starting a fall cleanup to eliminate prevalent fire hazards in the home and stores. They are also taking the importance of the program into the schools where essays are being prepared to inculcate a sense of warning for the youths. It is a week which should be observed rigidly by all. A look at the statistics show how far reaching and costly are the results of fire and like many motor accidents many can easily be prevented with only a minimum amount of effort and caution.

NORDEN

By C. W. Kramer

Old Jupe Pluvius was on schedule last week in his visit with another blanket of snow which piled up to about five inches at one time, Being of the wet variety, the snow did not pile up and it was estimated that over a foot fell Thursday and Friday and melted as it came down adding greatly to the reservoirs and streams and soaking up the dry ground. All water shortages were alleviated and fall pasturage was bettered. Many tourists were on hand to try out their skiis over the weekend in the Sugar Bowl.

Our Mistake

According to Mr. G. D. Oliver, former president of the Hobart Company, this portion of the line was standard gauge, the narrow gauge being only to the timber and abandoned three years ago. The old Bowker as well as the W. L. Hobart, engines used on the line, are also standard gauge.

HISTORY SHOWS TRUCKEE WAS LIVELY CENTER

Following is the first of a series of excerpts taken from Edward's Tourist Guide and Director of the Truckee Basin, published in 1883 and which will be of interest to old-time residents as well as the Johnny-come-latelys.

Truckee is located in the heart of the timber belt, and nearly in the center of the 300 square miles composing the Truckee Basin.

Its saw mills manufactured the lumber which built the snow-sheds of the Sierras and the ties and bridge timbers of the Central Pacific, and it has ever maintained a brisk lumber trade throughout Nevada, Utah and southern Idaho.

Its forwarding and merchandising is exceedingly great. Sierra Valley, Quincy and the Plumas Eureka mines on the north, and Tahoe on the south look to Truckee for provisions and supplies. The town is, and must always continue to be, the entrepot of the entire summit land.

The extensive tourist travel to Tahoe, Donner, Webber and Independence Lakes passes through Truckee.

An ice trade of fabulous magnitude is supplied from pure clear waters of the Truckee river and its tributaries. Its grazing products are rich and inexhaustible. One hundred and twenty-thousand sheep and vast herds of cattle are pastured in its immediate vicinity. As a place admirably adapted for residence, Truckee has claims that very few places can boast of. Although now but a little town on top of the mountains it has hopes, big hopes, of the future. For eight months in the year the weather is delightful. The many attractive resorts in the near vicinity render a residence here unusually desirable especially during the summer months.

Good fishing, fine hunting and a clear, cool and healthful atmosphere are charms not possessed by every locality. Even the winters here have their attractions. There is no mud no driving rains, no fogs and gloomy surroundings of slush and mud.

Sleigh riding, skating and other winter sports help to pass the time away.

NEWSPAPER WEEK

In a war-troubled world which has already claimed freedom of speech and press as its first casaulty in countries abroad, California's celebration of Newspaper Week, October 8 to 14, takes on deeper significanse.

An inseparable ally of democratic government is a free press. One cannot exist without the other. That has been a basic tenet ever since doughty John Campbell founded the public-spirited, outspoken Boston "News-Letter" in 1704 and gave America its first newspaper.

Today, more than two centuries later, no medium has successfully challenged the newspaper. As a reporter, its job of information gathering ranges from the distant news fronts of the world in China and Poland to the story of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, proud parents of a new son—an event of no less importance on the home front.

Certainly in these latter stories of births and deaths, of weddings and visits, there's a sound substance of community interest, of kinship in the sorrows and joys which we and our fellowmen daily experience and which help bind communities together.

In movements of civic betterment the newspaper plays a traditional role, just as in the uncensored dissemination of news, state, national, or international, it fulfills, thoroughly as it can, the serious task of enabling people to assess events for their true worth. And it is a touchstone of the democratic way of life, that given this means of assessing events through full presenation of the facts, 'the people will find their way.'

Facts, as well as faith, support that principal. For where, as in some countries of Europe in recent years, truth has become an enemy of the State, the people have been led into darkness and disaster. For the signifincance of Newspaper week, people of a democracy have much to give their thanks.

"MY OWN PEOPLE"

Hearing and reading many accounts—chiefly of an inflammartory nature—of the plight of migrants in California, Mrs. Sue Sanders, gray-haired Oklahoma pioneer and author, has come to study the situation for herself. She finds that 25,000 Oklahomans are now in Kern county alone, with large numbers scattered elsewhere. She concludes: "With the California State Relief administration short of funds, it is difficult to tell what will become of many of these people, once the harvest season is past. What is neede is an intensive educational campaign to warn prospective migrants against leaving their home states."

And Mrs. Sanders, who states frankly that she is wholly concerned with the welfare of "my own people", plans to undertake an Oklahoma radio campaign urging them to stay home and not intensify their own troubles by flocking here. Many Californians, particularly farmers, harassed by vilification over the migrant situation—will regret that such common sense thinking and sympathetic understanding has not been more evident in attempts to approach the problem from the standpoint of rightful interests of "our own people."

KEEP CALM

Personally Ye Ed is not much concerned about the present war in Europe. So far as he is concerned they can shoot Hitler at sunrise if they can get him up that early. So far as England is concerned she always has been so greedy she would like to have the moon if she she could prevail upon the French to do the fighting for it. So far as France is concerned the French would rather fight than drink wine and we are inclined to believe, from personal observation, that they like to drink wine. So far as Poland is concerned we don't care whether it is called Poland or Duroc. In fact, it's just a little hard for us to get "het up" a great deal over any of the nations involved. Meanwhile we trust the United States will continue to saw wood and hoe bindweed.

—Greenleaf, Kan., Sentinal.

NEW GAME, OLD NAME

Variously reported as being in Iceland, the Gulf of Mexico, England, Russia and Italy, the mysteriously vanished German liner, Bremen, gives a new name to an old game. To queries of "Bremen, Bremen, who's got the Bremen?", all parties make no answer, save to say, "Mum's the word."

A survey of college graduates shows that few of them believe in hell. But wait until they begin paying taxes.

—Wichita Eagle.

Some people are already complaining because the food costs have gone up since the war in Europe started. But, believe us, if Uncle Sam is drawn into the struggle these people will find that so far as prices are concerned "they ain't seen nothing yet."

American citizens living in Russia have been advised to leave the country and return to the United States. This advice is a little slow in coming as it would have been excellent at any time during the past 20 years.

One WPA activity which would meet with the approval of 98 per cent of our people would be a project to widen the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

The European war has made most people forget on what Thursday in November Thanksgiving is to fall.

Politically Speaking

by JOHN W. DUNLAP
United Press Staff Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 12.— (UP)— Former Governor Frank F. Merriam may not have made up his mind definitely, but it is a fairly safe bet he will make the race to succeed the late Congressman Thomas Eeaton of Long Beach.

Governor Culbert L. Olson is required to call a special election to fill the post but has not set the date. Friends of Merriam already are beating the drums, however, and would like to see California's former governor toss his hat in the ring. They think Merriam stands an excellent chance of being elected because of his well-known name, his wide acquaintance in his home town of Long Beach, and the residence there of so many elderly and somewhat conservative voters.

And not to be denied is the claim that Long Beach is the second capital of Iowa, so numerous are ex-Iowans at the annual picnics. Merriam got his start in politics in the tall corn state and can never live down the good-natured ribbing he received after welcoming California editors at the state fair in Sacramento to the "Iowa state fair."

Merriam is a great campaigner and likes nothing better than a political fight. His forte has always been speechmaking and his ready wit has enlivened many a meeting. He has been running for some office every year or two for the past 40 years with singular success. He was a fixture in the Iowa legislatures, came west and spent a score of years in the California legislature. His term as lieutenant governor was not over when Governor James Rolph died and made him the chief executive.

The Merriam-Sinclair battle for governor in 1934 was one of California's political highlights. The campaign was the most vitriolic in recent years and resulted in a narrow victory for Merriam. After four years Merriam was considered an average leader, neither spectacular nor particularly outstanding. His campaign for reelection was marred by a party break with Lt. Governor George Hatfield, who lost the nomination for governor in the primary.

The Long Beach contest is most untimely for Assemblyman Paul Peek also the democratic state chairman. Had the election been next October at the end of Eaton's term, Peek could have entered the race with a good chance of election.

Should Peek be elected at a special election before the coming special session of the legislature, the governor would lose his key man in the lower house. Olson previously had weakened his power in the senate by giving judgeships to Harry Westover, Andrew Pierovich and Jesse Carter. All of which might lead Peek to not contest Merriam's election now but try to defeat him next fall.

Political observers feel that Merriam and Peek are the strongest possibilities in the field, with the possible exception of Byron Scott, whom Eaton narrowly defeated for reelection at the last election. Scott was taken care of by the democrats with an appointment as secretary of the state highway commission. His entrance into the field again would not be unlikely.

With the appointment of John R Richards as director of finance and Richard Sachse as director of natural resources, only two members of the governor's council are holdovers from previous administration.

One of these, Dr. Walter M. Dickie director of public health, is satisfactory to Governor Olson and may be retained, according to a source close to the chief executve.

The other, Corporation Commission-

VISITOR AT TAHOE KILLED AS AUTO WRECKED IN SOUTH

TAHOE CITY, Oct. 12.— The saddest final ever written to a summer vacation jaunt occurred Saturday morning in a Pomona hospital when Mrs. J. W. Cramer, step-mother of Mrs. Harvey H. Hull of Tahoe City, passed away.

Mr. and Mrs. Cramer, residents of Wellington, Kansas, had looked forward for weeks to their visit to the west and with California relatives. They spent several pleasure-crowded days in the Tahoe region, enjoying a trip around the lake, to Reno and other interesting points. But Mrs. Cramer confided with relatives that she dreaded the tirp west, her intuition warning her against it. It was with reluctance that she left her lovely Kansas home, but she did not want to spoil the long planned trip.

Only a few weeks ago while on a sight-seeing trip with relatives near Pomona, their car was struck from behind by a heavy truck, the entire party being injured as the car was almost telescoped. All went to the hospital, with Mrs. Cramer the most seriously injured.

Before her death, she was placed in a plaster cast, the Hulls rushing to her bedside when it became known her condition was critical. She died Saturday with members of the family at her bedside—her premonition of danger justified too late. The body is being shipped to Kansas for interment. Tahoe extends sincere sympathy to the Hull family.

GOLD DEPOSITS NEAR TAHOE GIVE TALK OF GREAT STRIKE

TAHOE CITY, Oct. 12.— What is believed to be a major gold discovery has been made in the Mt. Tallac district, six miles west of Tahoe by E. P. Schultz, xeteran Nevada prospector, and H. E. Brunson, Goose Creek, Texas businessman. The mineral zone which contains free gold and sulphides, extends over an area of 600 feet wide by 1000 feet long and is apparently composed of a solid mass of low grade ore. Rich quartz shows in the seams. Assays of the deposit vary from $3 to $6 a ton with the highgrade streaks going up to $1000 a ton.

PEOPLE say modern lighting that is "easy on the eyes" makes the eyes feel better . . . And they are right . . . Good lighting brings out the beauty of the home furnishings . . . It aids personal beauty, too.

Light that is glaring brightness or that is dim and gloomy makes hard work of seeing. It causes squints and frowns and scowls and brings on many premature wrinkles and face-lines.

Good, modern lighting merely means the right kind of light, and the right amount of light where you read or sew or use your eyes. And you can have it easily, quickly, inexpensively.

Traveling Around America

THE INCOMPARABLE COPIHUE

ONE of the loveliest sights in all South America is the copihue, national flower of Chile. Its flowers are large wax-like bells of rose or creamy white; the leaves, polished green lances; the stems, slender cordlike climbers. It is the most beautiful member of the lily family called Lapageria after Josephine Lapageria, first wife of Napoleon.

The copihue is seen in its full glory in southern Chile. Here it climbs over fences and entwines tree trunks, swirling its flowers in graceful festoons. It throws its blossoms in sprays over garden walls; and casts them deep into the dark green forests to gleam against a lacework of ferns or the jade satin of myrtles. In spite of its delicate beauty the copihue is a sturdy flower. It will last for a week or two in vases—and makes a gorgeous decoration for the home.

Travelers visiting Chile on the weekly cruises from New York usually are amazed at the profusion of flowers to be found there at any time of the year. Bougainvillea and the flaming poinsettia, fresia, heliotrope and mimosa, roses growing like wild flowers, the purple wisteria and fragrant jasmine, the passion flower with its blue or rosy flowers, magnolias, acacias and oleanders—all take their turn at painting the landscape, while Chile's highest peaks are perpetually wrapped in snow.—EDNA MAE STARK

CAPITOL WEEK

By Newton Stearns
United Press Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 12.— (UP)—The Capitol was near normal again last week as Governor Culbert Olson returned to his office after three months spent in other parts of the state.

The executive's offices, which were completely remodeled during the governor's absence, are not quite finished, however, and Olson will make his headquarters for the next three weeks in the elaborate office of the director of finance.

Anxious to get his administration clicking in every department in preparation for the coming special session of the legislature, the governor named two key department heads during the week—John R. Richards as director of finance and Richard Sachse as director of natural resources.

Richards, Los Angeles nvestment banker, was chairman of the governor's committee on reemployment which recently reported on means of establishing production-for-use projects in California as an aid in removing relief clients from the dole.

Sachse is a consulting engineer also of Los Angeles. Former chief engineer of the state railroad commission, he was picked, Olson said with the thought of the natural resource chief's added duties as administrator of the California oil conservation act if the Atchison bill survives a referendum vote at the November 7, special election.

The governor also filled several posoions on various boards and commisons among them naming all members of the apprenticeship council and the poultry improvement commission, both of which were created by the last legislature.

The apprenticeship council is composed of George L. Rosecrans of the Berkeley public schools, representing the general public; John H. Smith, San Francisco; L. H. Michiner, Los Angeles; George E. Ellicott, Los Angeles; and Vernon Burke all representing employes; and J. G. Ennes, San Francisco; Randall Irwin, Burbank; L. A. Ireland, San Francisco, and Walter J. Escherich, Los Angeles all representing employers.

Named to the poultry commission were R. B. Halloway, Van Nuys; J. E. Dougherty, secretary of the poultry producers constructive association of Central California; John J. Hunter, Niles;; Arthur G. Howard, Rio Linda and Horace W. Driden, Modesto.

T. F. KiKlmartin of San Jose was appointed to the California horse-racing board, replacing Henry Potter Russell who resigned. At the same time Edward R. Young, chairman of the board, was reappointed.

Genevieve L. A. Shaffer, San Francisco, was appointed as a member of the real estate board.

The secratary of state's office received during the week a report from the Retirement Life Payments association showing collections of nearly half a million dollars in the campaign for the $30 every Thursday retirement plan.

The statement was returned, however, with a demand that the pension organization itimize its disposition of the money down to the last $10 expenditure. The financial report was already a week behind the deadline set by law and the immense task of listing names and addresses of all persons receiving $10 or more of the $459,000 campaign fund will cause additional delay.

The association can be prosecuted on criminal charges for late filing by authorities in Los Angeles county where the headquarters is located.

It appeared certain on the basis of a report by Governor Olson's committee on agricultural labor that San Joaquin valley cotton growers will have to pay more than the 80 cents per hundred they have offered pickers if they expect to obtain help of persons on relief, but the minimum was not determined last weekend.

The committee submitted a divided report, with four members recommending a wage suffcient to return the equivalent of relief allotments, and the remaining three committeemen advocating a flat $1.25 rate—the amount demanded by the pickers. The state relief administration was expected to announce regulations governing release of relief clients for cotton labor after a study of the report.

NEW LIQUOR RULINGS ARE ADOPTED BY STATE BOARD

The state board of equalization last week adopted a fair trade rule which will become effective October 15, requiring that all distilled spirits be sold under fair trade contracts, that prices be posted with the board and prohibiting close out sales unless permission has been granted.

The contracts must be filed with the board before any liquor can be sold.

Earlier the board adopted a rule which standardizes cases for distilled spirits and outlaws the present existing case of 13 or 26 bottles. This rule was effective October 1.

DRIVE STARTED ON FAULTY EQUIPMENT BY STATE PATROL

E. Raymond Cato, chief of the California Highway Patrol, this week instructed the officers of his department to inspect the equipment of as many automobiles as possible before the winter months begin in hope of decreasing the usual heavy accident toll.

The officers are instructed to inspect brakes, headlights, windshield wipers, clearance lights, reflectors, steering mechanism, windshields and mechanical arm signals.

Patrolmen have the authority to stop motorists and make this inspection.

Count the cost, California Taxpayers—and count it carefully...

For if 30-Thursday becomeh law, YOU pay!

President Roosevelt warns: "It (30-Thursday) would constitute a 25 per cent income tax which would fall far heavier on the poor than on the rich."

Working Californians would pay the piper for every "dollar" warrant issued to the privileged class of non-workers which would be set up under this preposterous plan

And in addition, a new 3 per cent income, or gross transactions tax—a vicious pyramiding tax, applying to each turnover—would be levied against every cash transaction. That would mean .....

A NEW TAX ON CLOTHS
A NEW TAX ON BUSINESS
